

Contents

|                                                                                               |                 |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------|
| Preface                                                                                | page vii |
| Abbreviations                                                                          | ix              |
| Glossary                                                                               | xi              |
| Introduction                                                                                  | I               |
| 1 Religious Ethics and the Philosophy of Warfare inVedic and Epic India: 1500–400 BCE     | 13              |
| 2 Buddhism, Jainism and Asoka’s Ahimsa                                                 | 40              |
| 3 Kautilya’s Kutayuddha : 300 BCE–300 CE                                               | 58              |
| 4 Dharmayuddha and Kutayuddha from the Common Erato the Advent of the Turks | 106             |
| 5 Hindu Militarism under Islamic Rule: 900–1800 CE                                            | 161             |
| 6 Hindu Militarism and Anti-Militarism in British India:1750–1947                         | 211             |
| 7 The Hindu Military Ethos and Strategic Thought inPost-Colonial India                    | 237             |
| Conclusion                                                                                    | 261             |
| Select Bibliography                                                                    | 267             |
| Index                                                                                  | 283             |