

Agnes Schick-Chen / Astrid Lipinsky (eds.)

Justice Restored?

Between Rehabilitation and Reconciliation
in China and Taiwan

PETER LANG

Internationaler Verlag der Wissenschaften

Contents

Preface Astrid Lipinsky, Agnes Schick-Chen	5
Introduction: Coming to Terms with the Past on Both Sides of the Taiwan Strait: Historical and Political Context Agnes S. Schick-Chen	9
Coping with the Cultural Revolution: Contesting Interpretations Susanne Weigelin-Schwiedrzik	25
The Issue of Guilt in Ba Jin’s “ Sui Xiang Lu (Random Thoughts)” Shuangwen Liu	73
Gender Issues of Transitional Justice in Taiwan and their Relevance for Today’s Women’s Movement Astrid Lipinsky	95
The Role of the Presbyterian Church in Taiwan’s Transitional Justice Yoshihisa Amae	127
The Dao – Power and Powerlessness of Indigenous People in Times of Transition Rosa Enn	153
Transitional Justice in Multiethnic Taiwan. Han Chinese and Yuanzhumin—Identities in Conflict Sonja Peschek	183
Authors.....	203