

CONTENTS

Preface	page ix
Preamble	xi
PART I	Enacted and judge-made law 1
1	Introduction 3
1	Statutes and cases 3
2	Differences 11
3	Early English legislation 20
2	The supremacy problem 26
1	Legislative versus judicial supremacy 27
2	Parliamentary sovereignty 32
3	Three notes of caution 36
a	The presumption against alteration 36
b	From parliament to government 39
c	Common-law constitutionalism 42
PART II	The jurisprudence of statutes 55
3	The quest to intellectualize statute law 57
1	Block-heads' law 57
2	Statutes and statute making 64
3	An agenda for legisprudence? 68
4	The many versus the few 74
5	The authority of statute law 79
4	Legislatures and intentions 92
1	Contesting legislative intent 93
2	Mapping intention 101
a	Minimal legislative intent 104
b	Intentions, plans, purposes 110

viii	CONTENTS
3	Existence and identification 115
PART III	The interpretation of statutes 121
5	Fidelity to text 123
1	The hazards of statutory interpretation 124
2	Against interpretation 135
3	Plain meaning 140
4	The golden rule 155
5	Interim reflections 167
6	Purposivism, past and present 170
1	Is law nuts? 179
2	Lingering mischief 186
3	Modern equity 197
4	Il n’y a pas de hors-texte? 207
5	Negotiating legislative history 214
6	Intention against (meta-)intention 224
	Index 241