

Contents

List of Illustrations	page vii
Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	i
1. Islam in the “New World”: The Historical Setting	9
2. Islamic Beliefs and Practice in Colonial and Antebellum America	59
3. Conflating Race, Religion, and Progress: Social Change, National Identity, and Islam in the Post–Civil War Era	95
4. Race, Ethnicity, Religion, and Citizenship: Muslim Immigration at the Turn of the Twentieth Century	135
5. Rooting Islam in America: Community and Institution Building in the Interwar Period	165
6. Islam and American Civil Religion in the Aftermath of World War II	228
7. A New Religious America and a Post-Colonial Muslim World: American Muslim Institution Building and Activism, 1960s–1980s	272
8. Between Experience and Politics: American Muslims and the “New World Order,” 1989–2008	327
Epilogue	379
Select Bibliography	383
Index	427