

Contents

List of illustrations	page ix
List of tables	xi
Acknowledgments	xii
Equivalent weights and measures	xiii
List of abbreviations	xiv
Introduction	1
1 Sixteenth-century municipal plans for poor relief	12
The 1541 plan in Turin	12
Civic ideology and provision for the poor	18
New methods and conceptions of poor relief?	23
A secularisation of charity?	29
Turin’s ‘civic religion’ in the late Middle Ages	33
2 Civic charity in the age of state formation	39
The growth of municipal poor relief	39
Responses to the plague	44
Anti-famine policy	57
Charitable resources for the poor and sick in ‘normal times’	69
Poor relief and city politics	80
The rise of ducal charity	86
3 Motivations for charity	98
From civic to voluntary charity	98
Charity and the defence of status	108
Corporate control over charity	115
The internment of the poor	120
Charity and prestige	127
Charity and patronage	140
The management of charity	146

viii	Contents
4	Charity and gender	153
	Women and convents	153
	Asylums for penitents	160
	Women and property	167
	Charity as an expression of conflict within the family	175
5	Hospitals and poor relief in the age of absolutism	183
	Attacking the independence of charitable institutions	183
	The 1717 congregazioni di carità	188
	The first lying-in ward and school for midwives	196
	The hospital reforms of the 1730s	208
	The privatisation of charitable resources	214
6	The state system of relief	225
	Ambiguities in the government's poor relief policy	225
	From charities to workhouses	229
	The institutions change their architectural form	233
	New definitions of poverty in the second half of the eighteenth century	241
	Conclusion	250
	Bibliography	258
	Index	271