

FRAMING FILM

THE HISTORY & ART OF CINEMA

13

Dangerous Dreams

Essays on American
Film and Television

JAN WHITT

Contents

Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	1
Section One
The Influence of Literature on Film and Television
Chapter One	17
Shutter Island: Martin Scorsese's Allegory of Despair
Chapter Two	25
When Fiction Becomes Reality: Authorial Voice in The Door in the Floor , Secret Window , and Swimming Pool
Chapter Three	35
The "Very Simplicity of the Thing": Edgar Allan Poe, Jessica B. Fletcher, and Murder, She Wrote
Chapter Four	47
Changing Faces: Dr. Jekyll, Mr. Hyde, and Films of the 1980s
Chapter Five	61
Displaced People and the Frailty of Words: Communication in Ordinary People , On Golden Pond , and Terms of Endearment
Section Two
Portrayals of Class, Race, and Sexual Orientation
Chapter Six	73
Working Man Blues: Images of the Cowboy in American Film

Chapter Seven	93
From the Wilderness into the Closet: Brokeback Mountain and the Lost American Dream
Chapter Eight	105
What Happened to Celie and Idgie?: “Apparitional Lesbians” in American Film
Chapter Nine	125
Litigating the Past: Portrayals of the Japanese in American Film
 Section Three
Portrayals of Class, Race, and Ethnicity
Chapter Ten	141
Fatherhood, Fidelity, and Friendship: Owen Thoreau Jr. and Men of a Certain Age
Chapter Eleven	153
Frank’s Place : Coming Home to a Place We’d Never Been Before
Chapter Twelve	167
“American Life Is Rich in Lunacy”: The Unsettling Social Commentary of The Beverly Hillbillies
Chapter Thirteen	189
Grits and Yokels Aplenty: Depictions of Southerners on Prime-Time Television
 Section Four
Portrayals of Women in Film and Television
Chapter Fourteen	205
From Great Expectations to The Bachelor : The Jilted Woman in Literature and Popular Culture
Chapter Fifteen	223
The Lady Is (Still) a Tramp: Prime-Time Portrayals of Women Who Love Sex

Chapter Sixteen

245

“This Moment of June”:

Laura Brown, Clarissa Vaughn, Virginia Woolf, and The Hours

Index

255