

Ekkehard Eggs / Dermot McElholm

Exemplifications, Selections and Argumentations

The Use of Example Markers in English and German

PETER LANG
EDITION

Table of contents

1	Introduction	7
2	The types of use of example markers – general overview	11
2.1	The descriptive use of example markers.....	14
2.1.1	Example markers in enumerative appositions and in noun or prepositional phrases: exemplifications and selections	14
2.1.2	The generalising effect of example markers	24
2.1.3	Example markers in enumerative appositions: instantiations and specifications	26
2.1.4	Exemplifications in non-appositive structures.....	30
2.1.5	The position of the example markers in selections and exemplifications – issues of syntactical and information structure	32
2.1.6	Potentially propositional prepositional phrases (because of, in spite of).....	38
2.1.7	Focussing and contrastive intonation.....	49
2.2	Descriptive uses in sentences or clauses in the scope domain.....	53
2.2.1	Complex sentences with adverbial clauses	53
2.2.2	Complex sentences with non-adverbial clauses: that -clauses	58
2.2.3	Complex sentences with non-adverbial clauses: relative clauses	62
2.2.3.1	Non-integrated uses – transphrastic links and determinations	63
2.2.3.2	Integrated uses.....	74
2.3	Descriptive and argumentative uses in comparisons	78
3	The argumentative use of example markers	85
3.1	Abductive und deductive forms	86
3.2	Inductive and analogical forms	100
3.3	A fortiori -arguments and graduated argumentative blocs: let alone... ..	108
3.4	On the linguistic vs. dialectical classification of examples. Example arguments without example markers	117
4	The uses of example markers in German	123
4.1	Complete or almost complete overlapping: exemplifications	124
4.2	Partially overlapping uses: selections	127
4.3	Almost complete overlapping: argumentative use.....	132
4.4	Transphrastic patterns	142
5	Bibliography	149