

Bruno Mascitelli, Rory Steele
& Simone Battiston

The 2001 Italian expatriate vote: Was it worth it?

A view from the Africa-Asia-
Oceania-Antarctica college

PETER LANG

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
List of Abbreviations	ix
List of Tables	xi
 Preface by Franca Arena	 xiii
 1. Introduction: Migration, Homeland and Host Land
Engagement.....	1
1.1. Terminology and scope of the study	4
1.2. Expatriate engagement and voting	7
1.3. New models of citizenship and voting rights	13
1.4. Conclusion	22
 2. Enfranchising Citizens Abroad.....	 25
2.1. Expatriate voting and representation: current trends	27
2.2. French and Portuguese voters abroad	32
2.3. Italian voters abroad	35
2.4. Greek voters abroad.....	37
2.5. Conclusion	41
 3. Italian Expatriate Voting: The Australian Experience	 43
3.1. Setting the scene: the 2006, 2008 and 2013 elections	44
3.2. The 2006, 2008 and 2013 elections in AAOA and Australia.....	52
3.3. Electoral fraud and voting scandals	63
3.4. The case of Di Girolamo	69
3.5. Conclusion	70
 4. Views from the Focus Groups: Canberra, Sydney and Melbourne	 71
4.1. Background to the study and methodology	72

4.2. Analysis and discussion of the findings.....	74
4.3. The focus group questions.....	76
4.4. Conclusion	92
5. An interview with MP Marco Fedi.....	93
5.1. Questions and answers	94
5.2. Conclusion	107
6. Interviews with Former Candidates Joe Caputo, Luigi Casagrande, Joe Cossari, and Teresa Todaro Restifa	109
6.1. Questions and answers	110
6.2. Conclusion	123
7. Conclusion.....	125
Appendices.....	133
1. Letters by Franca Arena to Corriere della Sera and replies	133
2. Unpublished letter by Franca Arena to PM Kevin Rudd	143
Bibliography	145
Index.....	153