

li169

Linguistic Insights
Studies in Language and Communication

Miguel A. Aijón Oliva & María José Serrano

Style in syntax

Investigating variation in Spanish pronoun subjects

Peter Lang

Contents

Acknowledgements	9
1. Advancing the study of syntactic variation	11
1.1 Beyond synonymy in syntactic variation. Meaning, discourse and pragmatics	13
1.1.1 Linguistic diversity, the variationist approach and its application to the study of morphosyntax	13
1.1.2 Grammatical meaning and some related problems	15
1.1.3 The road to solution: different ways to say different things	19
1.1.4 Meaningful vs. non-meaningful variation?	24
1.2 The cognitive foundations of syntactic variation	26
1.2.1 Cognitivism as a theoretical basis for variation studies	26
1.2.2 The main explanatory notions	31
1.3 Communication, style, and syntax	35
1.3.1 Structural-responsive models of style	36
1.3.2 Initiative models of style	38
1.3.3 Towards a theoretical concept of socio-communicative style	42
1.4 Conclusion: Some basic principles of syntactic variation and style	45
2. Corpora and methodology	47
2.1 The corpora	48
2.1.1 Corpus Conversacional del Español de Canarias (CCEC)	49
2.1.2 Corpus de Lenguaje de los Medios de Comunicación de Salamanca (MEDIASA)	50
2.2 Variation and textual genre	51
2.3 Variation and social factors	56
2.3.1 Speaker socio-professional ascription	56
2.3.2 Speaker communicative stance	58
2.3.3 Speaker sex/gender	60
2.4 Relative variables	61

2.5	Absolute variables	64
2.6	The need for qualitative analysis	68
3.	Variation and meaning in Spanish pronoun subjects	71
3.1	The syntax of Spanish pronoun subjects	72
3.1.1	The cognitive status of personal pronouns. Pronoun subjects and their syntactic variability	72
3.1.2	General quantitative data.....	77
3.2	First-person singular yo	79
3.2.1	The indexation of the speaker in discourse	79
3.2.2	Expression and omission of the singular first person.....	80
3.3	First-person plural nosotros	88
3.3.1	The meaning and values of the plural first person	88
3.3.2	Formal variation and reference of nosotros	91
3.4.	Second-person singular tú	101
3.4.1	Deictic and non-deictic uses of the second person	101
3.4.2	The objectivization of discourse through person displacement.....	103
3.4.3	Expression and omission of the second- person subject.....	106
3.5	Second-person usted and ustedes	112
3.5.1	Between the second and the third person	112
3.5.2	Expression and omission of usted / ustedes	114
3.5.3	Conclusion: the variable formulation of subjects and the meaning of discourse	118
3.6	The placement of expressed subjects within the clause.....	119
3.6.1	The cognitive foundations of subject placement	119
3.6.2	Subject placement in declarative clauses	124
3.6.3	Subject placement in interrogative clauses.....	130
3.6.4	Subject placement in hortative clauses.....	134
3.7	Conclusion.....	140
4.	The development of socio-communicative styles in discourse ...	143
4.1	Meaning and style. The subjectivity-objectivity axis	143
4.1.1	The subjectivity-objectivity axis as an explanatory stylistic dimension	146
4.2	Style and social identity.....	150
4.2.1	Style and sex/gender.....	151
4.2.1.1	Sex/gender and style in spontaneous conversation.....	154

4.2.1.1.1	First-person singular yo	154
4.2.1.1.2	First-person plural nosotros	156
4.2.1.1.3	Second-person singular tú	157
4.2.1.1.4	Second-person usted/ustedes	159
4.2.1.1.5	Subject placement	160
4.2.1.2	Sex/gender and style in mass-media discourse	164
4.2.1.2.1	First-person singular yo	164
4.2.1.2.2	First-person plural nosotros	167
4.2.1.2.3	Second-person singular tú	170
4.2.1.2.4	Second-person plural usted/ustedes	172
4.2.1.2.5	Subject placement	173
4.2.1.3	Conclusions	174
4.2.2	Style, socio-professional ascription and communicative stance	176
4.2.2.1	Speaker communicative stance and style in spontaneous conversation	180
4.2.2.1.1	First-person singular yo	180
4.2.2.1.2	First-person plural nosotros	182
4.2.2.1.3	Second-person singular tú	184
4.2.2.1.4	Second-person usted/ustedes	185
4.2.2.1.5	Subject placement	186
4.2.2.2	Speaker socio-professional ascription and style in massmedia discourse	190
4.2.2.2.1	First-person singular yo	190
4.2.2.2.2	First-person plural nosotros	193
4.2.2.2.4	Second-person usted/ustedes	201
4.2.2.2.5	Subject placement	205
4.3	Conclusion	208
5.	Style and interpersonal relationships	211
5.1	Interpersonal relationships and (im)politeness	211
5.2	Variable subject expression	214
5.3	Variable subject placement	219
5.4	Conclusion	225
	References	227