

Philologica Wratislaviensia: From Grammar to Discourse

Edited by Zdzisław Wąsik

Ryszard W. Wolny / Zdzisław Wąsik (eds.)

Faces and Masks of Ugliness in Literary Narratives

Table of contents

Tadeusz Rachwał

The ugly depths: Outsides and insides in colonial discourse 7

Ryszard W. Wolny

Australia's ugliness in Patrick White's selected writings 17

Dorota Babilas

The innocence of ugliness: Joseph Merrick, his interpreters and the evils of late-Victorian society 27

Marek Błaszak

The monstrosity of agedness: The presentation of Granny
in D. H. Lawrence's The Virgin and the Gipsy 37

Anna Branach-Kallas

Gothicizing the Wendigo: The ambivalences of monstrosity
in Three Day Road by Joseph Boyden 45

Stephen Dewsbury

A festering rotten stench: "The Man's" experience of post-colonial rule in Ayi Kwei Armah's The Beautiful Ones Are Not Yet Born 57

Jacek Fabiszak

Caliban, the salvage and deformed slave: On representations of ugliness in film versions of Shakespeare's The Tempest 65

Dagmara Krzyżaniak

In-yer-face theatre in the Irish context: Martin McDonagh's
The Cripple of Inishmaan and Enda Walsh's Bedbound 85

Bożena Kucala

"To embrace death": The ageing body in the fiction of J. M. Coetzee 95

Barbara Leftih

"And Lord, let me die with them": Evil, ugliness and disgrace
in the selected Indian captivity narratives 107

Ewa Młynarczyk

Disgraceful or thought provoking? Towards a new aesthetic:
Algernon Charles Swinburne and the subject matter of poetry 123

Tomasz Pilch

The figures darkness makes: The voice of Nathaniel Hawthorne in contemporary debates on evil..... 133

Jarosław Mihułka

Evil incarnate: The representations of Antichrist in the seventeenth-century
English literature 147

Index: Names of source-work's authors..... 163