

Kari E. Haugland,
Kevin McCafferty and
Kristian A. Rusten (eds)

'Ye whom the charms of grammar please'

Studies in English Language History
in Honour of Leiv Egil Breivik

Peter Lang

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
List of Tables	xiii
KEVIN MCCAFFERTY, KARI E. HAUGLAND AND KRISTIAN A. RUSTEN
Preface: Charms of grammar/Source of all glamour	xix
PART ONE Existential there and other expletives	I
KARI E. HAUGLAND
ƿa rinde hit & ƿær comun flod & bleowun windas: On expletives and word order in Old English	3
GARD B. JENSET
In search of the S (curve) in there	27
MARÍA JOSÉ LÓPEZ-COUSO AND SUSANA FORMOSO-RODRÍGUEZ
There follows + that -clause: A case of syntactic blend?	55
PART TWO Adverbials	75
KRISTIN KILLIE
The development of colour adverbs in Norwegian and English: Similar paths, different paths	77

TORIL SWAN

Hopefully: The evolution of a sentence adverbial 99

PART THREE Grammar 117

GISLE ANDERSEN

The double copula revisited 119

BJØRG BÆKKEN

The noun phrase as a style marker in seventeenth-century English 141

DAGMAR HAUMANN

On the ascent and decline of the passive tough-infinitive 167

KEVIN MCCAFFERTY

I think that I will be after making love to one of them:
A revised account of Irish English be after V-ing
and its Irish source 197

ANA ELINA MARTÍNEZ-INSUA

Language, medicine and choice:
A Systemic-Functional study of Early Modern English medical writing 223

KRISTIAN A. RUSTEN

Null referential subjects from Old to Early Modern English 249

PART FOUR	Information structure and pragmatics	271
KRISTIN BECH
	Non-specificity and genericity in information structure annotation	273
ØYSTEIN HEGGELUND
	Information structure as an independent word ordering factor in Old and Middle English	299
PART FIVE	Discourse	329
SARAH HOEM IVERSEN
	Do you understand this, my little pupil?: Children's dictionaries, pedagogy and constructions of childhood in the nineteenth century	331
MERJA STENROOS
	Fugitive voices: Personal involvement in Middle English letters of defence	355
ANNA-BRITA STENSTRÖM
	The pragmatic marker come on in teenage talk	381
	Leiv Egil Breivik: A bibliography	395
	Notes on contributors	399
	Index	405