

James S. Corum / Olaf Mertelsmann / Kaarel Piirimäe
(eds.)

The Second World War and the Baltic States

TARTU HISTORICAL STUDIES

Volume 4

PETER LANG
EDITION

Contents

Introduction James S. Corum, Olaf Mertelsmann and Kaarel Piirimäe	9
Mediation and Intervention in the Back of Beyond: Small States in the Eastern Baltic and France's Strategic Calculations, 1936–1940 Louis Clerc	21
Belgian Diplomacy in Exile and the Baltic states 1940–45 Thierry Grosbois	39
Minister T.M. Kivimäki in the Center of Europe – for the Periphery of Europe Pauli Heikkilä	71
Wartime Diplomacy in London: How Britain Came to Partially Recognize the Soviet Annexation of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania Tina Tamman	87
Needs and Realities in Estonian Air Defense: The Interwar Years Mika Raudvassar	99
The Baltic Region in the Soviet–German War, 1941–1945 David M. Glantz	121
First Air Fleet Operations in the Baltic Region, June–December 1941 James S. Corum	149
The 15th Division of the Latvian Legion in the Fight on the Velikaya River (1 March–14 April 1944): A Case Study in Maintaining Fighting Power Valdis Kuzmins	175
County Level Operational Groups as Part of the Soviet Strategy to Re-occupy Estonia during the Second World War Ardi Siilaberg	193

Exodus and Intelligence Operations: the Swedish Military and Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, 1943–45 Lars Ericson Wolke	209
Between Aspiration and Adaptation: German War Propaganda in Occupied Estonia from 1941 till 1942 Kristo Nurmis	223
The Reception of German War Propaganda in Estonia, 1941–1944 Kari Alenius	249
The Relationship of the Military and Civilian Authorities in Estonia during the German Occupation of 1941–1944 Toomas Hiio	273
Second Front in the West: Estonia, the Baltic Question and the Struggle for British Public Opinion, 1941–44 Kaarel Piirimäe	307