EVALUATING CARTESIAN LINGUISTICS

From Historical Antecedents to Computational Modeling

PETER LANG EDITION

Table of Contents

Preface	11
Chapter 1: Introduction	13
Chapter 2: Cartesian Linguistics	27
2.1 Species Specificity of Language	37
2.2 Domain Specificity of Language	41
2.3 Language Acquisition	46
2.4 Cartesian Ideas	51
2.4.1 General Introduction	51
2.4.2 Innate Ideas	56
2.5 Poverty of the Stimulus Arguments	61
2.6 Impossibility Arguments	65
2.7 Conclusions	73
Chapter 3: The Evolution of Chomskyan Linguistics	77
3.1 Introduction	77
3.2 Linguistic Nativism/Rationalism	80
3.2.1 Situating Chomsky's Nativism/Rationalism	80
3.2.2 The Problem of Innateness	82
3.3 Innateness and Linguistic Nativism	89
3.4 Chomskyan Linguistics – a Brief History	93
3.4.1 Chomskyan Linguistics as Natural Science	93
3.4.2 The Galilean Style	98
3.4.3 Critique of the Chomskyan Science	102
3.4.4 From Standard Theory to Minimalism	107
3.5 Chomsky's Arguments for Innateness of Language	126
3.5.1 The Poverty of Stimulus Argument	127
3.5.2 Chomsky's LAD	130
3.6 Conclusions	135

Chapter 4: Language Acquisition	139
4.1 Introduction	139
4.2 Arguments for the Innateness of Language	139
4.3 Empirical Evidence Gathered During Language Acquisition	141
4.3.1 Language Acquisition During Early Infancy	143
4.3.2 Emerging Language Production in Young Children	146
4.4 Statistical Information: From Sounds to Syntax	149
4.4.1 Sound Patterns and Semantics	150
4.4.2 Statistics and Syntax	152
4.5 The Problem of Negative Evidence	153
4.5.1 The Importance of Negative Evidence for Language Learning	154
4.5.2 Nativism and Negative Evidence	157
4.5.3 Negative Evidence Assists Language Acquisition	159
4.5.4 Is Negative Evidence Necessary for Language Acquisition?	163
4.6 Conclusions	165
Chapter 5: Computational Modeling of Language Acquisition	167
5.1 Introduction	167
5.2 Connectionist Networks	169
5.3 Case Studies	172
5.3.1 Elman's Early Connectionist Models	172
5.3.2 Relevance of Connectionist Simulations for the Nativist Debate ..	174
5.3.3 Other Computational Models of Language Acquisition	184
5.3.3.1 Models of Speech Segmentation	184
5.3.3.2 Multiple Cue Integration Models	189
5.3.3.3 Modeling of Complex Aspects of Syntax and Semantics ..	191
5.3.4 Recursion	198
5.4 Conclusions	203
Chapter 6: Conclusions	207
6.1 The Cartesian Tradition	207
6.2 Chomskyan Progress	212
6.3 Empiricist Views of Language Acquisition	216
6.4 Computational Modeling of Language Acquisition	219
6.5 Model Selection and Limitations of Simulation	220
References	231
