Table of Contents

Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Spring 1996 – Bascarsija........ 17
Antonella Valmorbida

Foreword......................................................................................................................... 19
Oriano Otočan
Jean Marc Roirant

Chapter 1. Objectives of This Volume ................................................................. 25
Antonella Valmorbida

1.1. From a Representative Democracy to a Participative Democracy: Practices and Evaluation ................................................. 25
1.2. What is the Added Value of the Citizen Participation Practices Put in Place in the Last Years? .................................................. 26
1.3. At the End of the 2007–2013 Programmes, What Did We Learn from the Programme Supported by Europe for Citizens? ........................................ 26

Chapter 2. The Approach of the Association of Local Democracy Agencies to Citizen Participation ........................................... 29

2.1. Territorial Approach and Local Communities at the Core of the Action ...................................................................................... 29
2.2. Local Authorities and Civil Society Working Together: a Comprehensive Form of Decentralisation ................................................................. 30
2.3. Project Based Approach ......................................................................................... 33
2.4. The Local Democracy Agencies Concept ..................................................................................... 33
2.5. Features of Cooperation in the LDAs ........................................................................ 34
2.6. Definitions .................................................................................................................. 38
2.7. Citizen Participation to Develop a Sense of Ownership and Responsibility to the Community and Inclusive Society ........................................................................ 39
2.8. Participatory Democracy: a Fundamental Element for Building a Democratic Society ........................................................................ 39
2.9. Citizen Participation: a European Value within the EU and in the Enlargement and Neighbouring Countries. Eastern Europe and Western Balkans in Transition

2.10. The Southern Policy of the European Union

2.11. Assessment of Our Action

Chapter 3. Data and Figures from a Seven Years Implementation Period

3.1. Methodologies Adopted

3.2. Analysis of the Data

Introduction: Trends and Development

4.1. Citizen Participation and the European Union Policies

4.1.1. The Lisbon Treaty and the Opportunity Offered by the Art 11

4.1.2. European Citizens’ Initiative, Start up, opportunities and Difficulties

4.1.3. Other Possibilities with Consultations and Structured Dialogues and Networks at the EU Level

4.1.4. Civil Society Forums

4.2. Local Authorities and Civil Society Networks

4.2.1. The European Alliance for Citizen Participation

4.3. Individual Participation: One by One

4.4. The Role of the European Economic and Social Committee

4.5. The Europe for Citizens Programme

Biljana Zasova Friederich

4.7. Final Considerations
Chapter 5. Citizen Participation at the National Level
General Frameworks of Consultations and Partnership

5.1. The Power of Partnerships: Latest developments with the Compact between the Government and the Voluntary and Community Sector in the UK

Oliver Henman

5.2. Civil Society Participation in Latvia

Rasma Pipike

5.3. Citizen Participation in Georgia – How Does It Really Work?

Davit Melua

5.4. Citizen Participation. The Case of Sweden, from My Perspective

Ludvig Sandberg

5.4.1. The Framework

5.4.2. The National Level

5.4.3. The Regional and Local Level

5.4.4. Challenges

5.5. The challenges of Citizen Participation in Transitional Societies of Western Balkans

Zoran Stojkovski

5.5.1. The Challenges of CSOs in Fostering Citizen Participation in Western Balkans Countries

5.5.2. Some Promising Models and Examples That Positively Influence Public Participation at the National and Local Level

Chapter 6. Citizen Participation at the Local Level and Best Practices
Introduction

6.1. Training and Problem Solving Modules on Active Citizenship Proposed by ALDA

6.2. Council of Europe and Practices for Citizen Participation at a Local Level

6.3. Citizen Participation Practices at a Local Level
6.3.1. Engaging New “Voters”: Recently Naturalised Swiss Citizens and Young People ........................................ 141
Katja Blanc

6.3.2. To Increase Citizen Participation, There is a Strong Need to Educate and Inform Citizens, Youth in Particular.................................................. 142
Jean Claude Mairal

Serena Foracchia

6.3.4. Active Citizen Is the One Who on His/Her Own Free Will, Is Involved in the Accomplishment of Tasks Benefiting Society without Wishing for Any Kind of Economic Reward........................................ 148
Chrissa Geraga

6.3.5. The Dominant Vision of Active Citizenship in Croatia Is Promoting and Developing Civil Society...................... 152
Patrizia Bosich

6.3.6. Working on The Environmental and Social Fields and Introducing Critical Historical Consciousness to Encourage Active Citizenship........................................ 155
Steluta Purcaru

Chapter 7. Citizen Participation in Enlargement and Neighbouring Countries: Comparing Frameworks, Experiences and Outcomes .................................................. 163

7.1. Citizen Participation at a Local Level in Eastern Partnership Countries – An Essential Element of Democracy Building and Sustainable Development Introduction.......................................................... 163

7.1.1. The Role of the Civil Society Forum for Eastern Partnership and Its Subgroup about Local Government and Public Administration Reform ........................................ 164

7.1.2. Activities of the Local Democracy Agencies and Related Projects by ALDA ........................................ 167
7.1.3. Conclusions ........................................................................................................... 168
7.1.4. Additional Documents .......................................................................................... 168

7.2. Local Democracy Agencies in the Western Balkans.
Paving the Way towards EU Integration.
Introduction .................................................................................................................. 173

Stanka Parac

7.2.1. The Role of Parliaments ....................................................................................... 175
7.2.2. The Role of Local and Regional Democracy .......................................................... 176
7.2.3. The Role of Civil Society ....................................................................................... 177

7.3. The Tunisian Spring or the Democratic Transition from Representation to Participation .............................................................................. 182

Moncef Ben Slimane

7.3.1. The First Steps of the Democratic Transition ....................................................... 182
7.3.2. The Tunisian Spring: from Representative to Participative Democracy ............... 183
7.3.3. ALDA and LAM ECHAML Working for Citizen Participation ......................... 184

Chapter 8. Experience of the Local Democracy Agencies in Citizen Participation .................. 187

8.1. LDAs Analysis ............................................................................................................. 192
8.1.1. LDA Albania ........................................................................................................... 192
8.1.2. LDA Armenia .......................................................................................................... 193
8.1.3. LDA Subotica (Serbia) .......................................................................................... 194
8.1.4. LDA Central and Southern Serbia (LDA CSS) ..................................................... 195
8.1.5. LDA Georgia .......................................................................................................... 197
8.1.6. LDA Kosovo .......................................................................................................... 197
8.1.7. LDA Montenegro ................................................................................................... 198
8.1.8. LDA Osijek – Operational Partner of ALDA ........................................................ 200
8.1.9. LDA Sisak – Operational Partner of ALDA ........................................................ 201
8.1.10. LDA Verteneglio/ Brtonigla – Operational partner of ALDA ............................... 202
8.1.11. LDA Prijedor (Bosnia and Herzegovina) ............................................................. 204
8.1.12. LDA Zavidovići (Bosnia and Herzegovina) ......................................................... 205
8.1.13. LDA Mostar (Bosnia and Herzegovina) ............................................................. 206

8.2. Experience of the Local Democracy Agencies in Citizen Participation – Case by Case .............................................................................................................. 209
8.2.1. The Local Democracy Agency in Mostar (Bosnia and Herzegovina) ................................................................. 209
Dženana Dedic

8.2.2. LDA Georgia ................................................................................. 212
Joseph Khakhaleishvili

8.2.3. The Green Agenda in Niksic – Participative Development and Implementation of the Local Sustainable Development Strategies and Plans ............................................. 216
Kerim Medjedovic

8.2.4. LDA Zavidovići ................................................................. 218
Sladjan Ilic

8.2.5. Youth Participation at a Local Level: the Experience of LDA Verteneglio .................................................. 225
Umberto Ademollo

8.2.6. LDA Armenia ................................................................................. 226
Lusine Alexandryan

8.2.7. Why Talk about Active European Citizenship and Citizen Participation? ................................................ 230
LDA Osijek, Croatia, Miljenko Turniski

8.2.8. Local Democracy Agency for Central and Southern Serbia ................................................................. 235
Sasa Marinkov

8.2.9. Democracy and Citizen Participation in Today’s Global World ................................................................. 239
LDA Sisak, Paula Raužan

8.2.10. LDA Prijedor (Bosnia and Herzegovina) ................................................................. 243
Dragan Dosen

8.2.11. Promoting Democratic Governance in Local Multicultural Community .................................................. 247
LDA Subotica, Serbia, Silvija Patarcic

Chapter 9. Citizens’ Panels: an Innovative Approach for Enhancing Participation .................................................. 251
Marco Boaria

9.1. Citizens’ Panels in Practice: Introducing the Key Components ................................................................. 251
9.2. The Experience of the Association of Local Democracy Agencies ........................................... 255

9.3. Lessons Learned. Analysis of the Outcomes ................................................................. 266
   9.3.1. A Question of Numbers .......................................................................................... 266
   9.3.2. A Question of Time .............................................................................................. 267
   9.3.3. A Question of Trust ............................................................................................... 267
   9.3.4. A Question of Method .......................................................................................... 268
   9.3.5. A Question of Levels ............................................................................................ 268
   9.3.6. A Few Key Questions .......................................................................................... 268

CHAPTER 10. CONTRIBUTIONS ABOUT CITIZEN PARTICIPATION IN EUROPE ......................................................... 271

10.1. Democracy Means Construction .................................................................................. 271

   Jo Spiegel

10.2. Analysis of Citizen Participation Projects by the Foundation for Partnership and Civil Society Development of the Istrian Region, Croatia .................. 272

   Andrej Pevec

10.3. The Local Economic Development Agency of the Vlora Region in Albania, a Practical Example from the UNDP Art Programme in Albania ........................................................................... 279

   Giancarlo Canzanelli

10.4. The Experience of Developing the Mechanisms of Civil Society’s Participation in the Eastern Partnership Initiative: the Civil Society Forum of Eastern Partnership and Its National Platforms .................................................................. 286

   Andrei Yahorau, Alena Zuikova

The Case of Belarus ................................................................................................................. 287

10.4.2. Belarusian National Platform as a Form of Developing the Participation Mechanisms .............................................. 289

10.4.3. In the Direction of a Further Growth ........................................................................ 292

10.5. Practices and Prospects for Citizen Participation at the Local Level in the EU. The Committee of the Regions’ Point of View ......................... 293

   Mercedes Bresso
10.5.1. Re-building the Lost Trust in the Political Institutions of the EU by Reinforcing Citizens’ Awareness of the Rights Linked to EU Citizenship .............................................................. 293

10.5.2. The Key Role of Local and Regional Authorities ........ 294

10.5.3. What Are the Rights Which Constitute the EU Citizenship? .............................................................. 295

10.5.4. Case Studies. Examples of Good Practices by LRAs All around the EU .................................................. 296

10.5.5. A Tip for the Future: Cultural Foyers vs EU InfoPoints .................................................................... 299

10.5.6. Conclusion ....................................................................... 300

10.6. Decentralised Cooperation Serving Citizens ................. 300

Ivana Dimistrovska

10.6.1. Citizen Participation in Macedonia and France ......... 301

10.6.2. Decentralised Cooperation for Better Local Governance ........................................................................ 301

10.6.3. Citizen Participation in Actions for Local Development: Case Studies ................................................ 302

10.6.4. Challenges Faced in the Promotion of Citizen Participation ........................................................................ 304

10.6.5. Conclusion ....................................................................... 304

10.7. Youth Participation in EuroMed: Illusion or Reality? ....... 305

Bernard Abrignani

10.8. For a Year of the Real European Citizen, Policy Paper on the European Year of Citizens .............................. 312

Giovanni Moro

10.8.1. Which Citizenship .......................................................... 313

10.8.2. Which Citizens ............................................................... 316

10.8.3. What to Do ................................................................. 319

Giuseppe Gangemi

10.10. Participatory Democracy in View of the Reorganisation of EU Constitutional Order ........................................ 331

Pier Virgilio Dastoli

10.11. Citizen Participation in the Decision Making Process: Some Reflections .................................................. 338

David Kode and Danny Sriskandarajah
10.11.1. Lessons Learned.......................................................... 340
10.11.2. What Needs to Change?............................................. 341
10.11.3. Conclusion.................................................................... 342

10.12. The Congress – An Active Promoter of Citizen Participation......................................................... 343

Andreas Kiefer

10.12.1. Treaties – The Legal Basis............................................ 343
10.12.2. Recommendations for Political Practice..................... 344
10.12.3. Participation of Civil Society....................................... 345
10.12.4. Findings and Perspectives for a New Era.................... 346

Chapter 11. Conclusions.......................................................... 349

Chapter 12. Annexes............................................................... 353

12.1. WTD Partners Take Position on Human Development Policies............................................................ 353

12.2. Empowering Citizens and Strengthening Local Governance in Neighbouring Countries: Lessons Learned and Opportunities from East to South. June 7th,
2012, Region Friuli Venezia Giulia, Udine, Italy....................... 356

12.3. Volunteering for Democracy: Dangers and Opportunities for Good Governance and Active Citizenship....................... 358

12.4. ALL.4.EU – ALDA Charter of Citizens’ Panels................. 363

12.5. EYCA Recommendations – Towards Democratic European Citizenship.............................................................. 365

12.5.1. EYCA Manifesto............................................................ 369