

Ludo ABICHT and Hendrik OPDEBEECK

The Point of Philosophy

An Introduction for the Human Sciences

P.I.E. Peter Lang

Table of Contents

Introduction	9
1. Insight, Outlook, and the Search for Meaning.....	11
1.1. The Philosophical Questions	12
1.2. Philosophy and Mythology.....	13
1.3. Philosophy and Religion.....	14
1.4. Philosophy and Ideology	14
1.5. The Emergence of Philosophy from a Worldview.....	14
1.6. Philosophy: Descriptive or Prescriptive	16
1.7. Philosophy: What's the Use?	18
2. The Lasting Relevance of Classical Philosophy	19
2.1. Before Socrates.....	19
2.2. Socrates and Plato.....	23
2.3. Aristotle	27
2.4. Hellenism and Rome: The Stoics and Neoplatonists.....	31
2.5. Jewish and Islamic Philosophy.....	34
2.6. Christian Philosophy.....	38
3. Putting the Search for Meaning in Parentheses.....	43
3.1. Rationalism.....	43
3.2. Empiricism.....	46
3.3. The Merciless Critique of Immanuel Kant	50
3.4. Hegel and German Idealism	53
4. Making Sense Individually and in Society.....	57
4.1. Ludwig Feuerbach	57
4.2. Karl Marx	59
4.3. Arthur Schopenhauer.....	66

4.4.	Søren Kierkegaard	68
4.5.	Friedrich Nietzsche	70
5.	Philosophy in the Age of Senseless World Wars	73
5.1.	Phenomenology and Existentialism	73
5.2.	Edmund Husserl	74
5.3.	Martin Heidegger	76
5.4.	Karl Jaspers	81
5.5.	Jacques Maritain	84
5.6.	Jean-Paul Sartre	89
5.7.	Gabriel Marcel, Martin Buber, and Emmanuel Levinas	94
5.8.	Ernst Bloch	97
5.9.	Sigmund Freud	100
5.10.	Herbert Marcuse	103
5.11.	Fritz Schumacher	108
5.12.	Michel Foucault	113
5.13.	Analytic and Logical-Positivist Philosophy	116
5.14.	Ludwig Wittgenstein	120
6.	Insight, Outlook, and the Search for Meaning in the New Millennium	125
6.1.	Paul Ricœur	125
6.2.	John Rawls	129
6.3.	Jean Baudrillard	132
6.4.	Jürgen Habermas	134
6.5.	Martha Nussbaum	137
6.6.	Slavoj Žižek	139
7.	By Way of a Sendoff	143
Index		145