

Contents

Preface vii

INTRODUCTION

1 Samuel Butler on convention and repetition	3
--	---

PART ONE: ROGER FRY AND VIRGINIA WOOLF

2 Roger Fry and the problem of representation	17
3 Verisimilitude and illusion: The Voyage Out and Night and Day	26
4 Sensation in language and art: Mrs Dalloway and Flush	38
5 Autonomy: Between the Acts	49
6 Craftsmanship	60
7 Colour	70
8 Space: 'hollowing out a canvas'	85

PART TWO: REPETITION AND RHYTHM

9 An introduction to the problem	97
10 The double nature of repetition: The Waves	128
11 The symbolic keyboard: Mrs Dalloway	149
12 Plot, history and memory: The Years	158
13 Character	166

CONCLUSION

14 To the Lighthouse	177
-----------------------------	-----

Appendix A 207

Appendix B 210

Notes 212

Bibliography 223

Index 229