

Contents

---

Preface	page xi
1 Defense economics: an introduction	1
I Alliances, defense demand, and arms races	17
2 The economic theory of alliances	19
3 The demand for military expenditures	52
4 Arms races	73
II Defense inputs, industrial base, and growth	111
5 Procurement: theories, evidence, and policies	113
6 Military manpower	156
7 Defense and the industrial base	177
8 Economic growth, development, and military expenditures	200
III Defense policies, trade, disarmament, and conversion	221
9 Industrial and alliance policies	223
10 The arms trade	242
11 Arms control and disarmament	260
12 Conversion	284
IV New developments and future directions	303
13 Nonconventional conflict: revolutions, guerrilla warfare, and terrorism	305
14 Conclusions and research agenda for the future	336
References	347
Author index	377
Subject index	382
	ix