

Communication in Plants

Neuronal Aspects of Plant Life

Bearbeitet von
Frantisek Baluska, Stefano Mancuso, Dieter Volkmann

1st ed. 2006. 2nd printing 2007. Buch. xxix, 438 S. Hardcover
ISBN 978 3 540 28475 8
Format (B x L): 15,5 x 23,5 cm
Gewicht: 951 g

Weitere Fachgebiete > Chemie, Biowissenschaften, Agrarwissenschaften > Botanik > Pflanzenphysiologie, Photosynthese

Zu Leseprobe

schnell und portofrei erhältlich bei

The logo for beck-shop.de features the text 'beck-shop.de' in a bold, red, sans-serif font. Above the 'i' in 'shop' are three red dots of increasing size. Below the main text, 'DIE FACHBUCHHANDLUNG' is written in a smaller, red, all-caps, sans-serif font.

beck-shop.de
DIE FACHBUCHHANDLUNG

Die Online-Fachbuchhandlung beck-shop.de ist spezialisiert auf Fachbücher, insbesondere Recht, Steuern und Wirtschaft. Im Sortiment finden Sie alle Medien (Bücher, Zeitschriften, CDs, eBooks, etc.) aller Verlage. Ergänzt wird das Programm durch Services wie Neuerscheinungsdienst oder Zusammenstellungen von Büchern zu Sonderpreisen. Der Shop führt mehr als 8 Millionen Produkte.

Contents

|          |                                                                                                                       |           |
|----------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 1 | The Green Plant as an Intelligent Organism                                                                     | 1  |
|          | Anthony Trewavas                                                                                               |           |
| 1.1      | Introduction .....                                                                                                    | 1         |
| 1.1.1    | The Problems of Subjective Intelligence .....                                                                         | 2         |
| 1.1.2    | An Ability to Integrate a Multiplicity of Informationinto a Response Is an Important Intelligent Capability ..... | 2         |
| 1.1.3    | Experimental Circumstances Can Be Misleading .....                                                                    | 3         |
| 1.2      | Intelligent Behaviour of Single Cells .....                                                                           | 4         |
| 1.2.1    | Molecular Networks in Single Eucaryote Cells.....                                                                     | 4         |
| 1.2.2    | Bacterial Intelligence and Phosphoneural Networks ...                                                                 | 6         |
| 1.2.3    | Observations of Eucaryote Single Cell Intelligence .....                                                              | 6         |
| 1.3      | Other Forms of Biological Intelligence .....                                                                          | 7         |
| 1.4      | The Intelligence of Green Plants.....                                                                                 | 8         |
| 1.4.1    | Decisions and Choice in Plant Development .....                                                                       | 9         |
| 1.4.2    | Predictive Modelling to Improve Fitness .....                                                                         | 10        |
| 1.4.3    | Internal Assessment of Present StateBefore Phenotypic Change .....                                                | 11        |
| 1.5      | Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                                | 11        |
|          | References .....                                                                                                      | 12        |
| 2 | Neurobiological View of Plants and Their Body Plan                                                             | 19 |
|          | František Baluška, Andrej Hlavacka, Stefano Mancuso,Peter W. Barlow                                       |           |
| 2.1      | Introduction .....                                                                                                    | 20        |
| 2.2      | Root Apex as the Anterior Pole of the Plant Body.....                                                                 | 21        |
| 2.3      | Shoot Apex as the Posterior Pole of the Plant Body .....                                                              | 23        |
| 2.4      | Auxin as a Plant Neurotransmitter .....                                                                               | 24        |
| 2.5      | Cellular End-Poles as Plant Synapses .....                                                                            | 24        |
| 2.6      | Vascular Strands as Plant Neurons.....                                                                                | 25        |
| 2.7      | Root Apices as “Brain-Like” Command Centres .....                                                                     | 27        |
| 2.8      | Ancient Fungal-Like Nature of Roots .....                                                                             | 29        |
| 2.9      | Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                                | 31        |
|          | References .....                                                                                                      | 31        |

|                                                                                                                     |           |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 3 Charles Darwin and the Plant Root Apex:Closing a Gap in Living Systems Theory as Applied to Plants    | 37 |
| Peter W. Barlow                                                                                              |           |
| 3.1 Introduction .....                                                                                              | 37        |
| 3.2 The Advancing Root Front and Brain System .....                                                                 | 39        |
| 3.3 The Location of the Plant Root-Brain .....                                                                      | 39        |
| 3.3.1 Clues from the Transition Zone .....                                                                          | 39        |
| 3.3.2 Clues from the Polarity of Auxin Flow.....                                                                    | 41        |
| 3.3.3 The Muscular Root-Brain .....                                                                                 | 42        |
| 3.4 The Anterior Root-Brain.....                                                                                    | 43        |
| 3.5 Closing a Gap in Living Systems Theory.....                                                                     | 44        |
| 3.6 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                          | 47        |
| References .....                                                                                                    | 49        |
| 4 How Can Plants Choose the Most Promising Organs?                                                           | 53 |
| Tsvi Sachs                                                                                                   |           |
| 4.1 Introduction: Developmental Selectionof Branch Configurations .....                                         | 53        |
| 4.2 An Experimental Model Demonstrates Branch Competition                                                           | 54        |
| 4.2.1 The Experimental System .....                                                                                 | 54        |
| 4.2.2 Stress Increases Competition.....                                                                             | 56        |
| 4.2.3 Unequal Light Conditions .....                                                                                | 56        |
| 4.2.4 The Rate of Shoot Development and Leaf Removal .....                                                          | 56        |
| 4.2.5 Hypothesis: Branches Compete.....                                                                             | 59        |
| 4.3 Mechanisms of Competition.....                                                                                  | 60        |
| 4.4 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                          | 61        |
| References .....                                                                                                    | 62        |
| 5 The Role of Root Apices in Shoot Growth Regulation:Support for Neurobiology at the Whole Plant Level? | 65 |
| Peter M. Neumann                                                                                             |           |
| 5.1 Introduction .....                                                                                              | 65        |
| 5.2 The Comparative Need for Rapid Neurobiological Activityin Animals and Plants.....                           | 66        |
| 5.3 Plants That Manage Without Roots, Root Apicesand Vascular Tissues .....                                     | 67        |
| 5.4 Do Plant Shoot Responses to Environmental StressesRequire Rapid Root-to-Shoot Signaling? .....              | 69        |
| 5.5 Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                                       | 72        |
| References .....                                                                                                    | 72        |

|          |                                                                                                                               |           |
|----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 6 | Signals and Targets Triggered by Self-Incompatibility in Plants:Recognition of “Self” Can Be Deadly               | 75 |
|          | S.G. Thomas, S. Huang, C.J. Staiger, V.E. Franklin-Tong                                                                |           |
| 6.1      | Introduction .....                                                                                                            | 75        |
| 6.1.1    | Pollen–Pistil Interactions .....                                                                                              | 76        |
| 6.1.2    | Self-Incompatibility .....                                                                                                    | 77        |
| 6.2      | The Actin Cytoskeleton and Self-Incompatibility .....                                                                         | 78        |
| 6.2.1    | Actin as a Sensor of Environmental Stimuli .....                                                                              | 78        |
| 6.2.2    | Actin as a Target for Self-Incompatibility Signalsin Incompatible Pollen .....                                            | 79        |
| 6.2.3    | Self-Incompatibility Stimulates Rapidand Sustained Depolymerization of F-Actin .....                                      | 80        |
| 6.2.4    | Increases in Cytosolic Calcium Lead to Changesin F-Actin .....                                                            | 81        |
| 6.2.5    | Profilin and Gelsolin:Mediators of Actin Alterations? .....                                                               | 81        |
| 6.2.6    | PrABP80 is Poppy Gelsolin .....                                                                                               | 82        |
| 6.3      | Programmed Cell Death and Self-Incompatibility .....                                                                          | 84        |
| 6.3.1    | Key Features of Programmed Cell Death .....                                                                                   | 84        |
| 6.3.2    | Programmed Cell Death is Triggered Duringthe Papaver Self-Incompatibility Response .....                           | 85        |
| 6.3.3    | A Link Between Actinand Programmed Cell Death? .....                                                                      | 87        |
| 6.4      | Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                                                     | 87        |
|          | References .....                                                                                                              | 89        |
| 7 | Signal Perception and Transduction in Plant Innate Immunity                                                            | 95 |
|          | Thorsten Nürnberger, Birgit Kemmerling                                                                                 |           |
| 7.1      | Introduction .....                                                                                                            | 95        |
| 7.2      | PAMPs as Triggers of Nonplant Cultivar-SpecificInnate Immune Responses .....                                              | 96        |
| 7.3      | Plant Pattern Recognition ReceptorsMediate PAMP Perception and Activationof Non-Cultivar-Specific Plant Defense ..... | 98        |
| 7.4      | Pathogen Recognitionin Host Cultivar-Specific Resistance .....                                                            | 100       |
| 7.5      | Intracellular Signal Transductionin Plant Innate Immunity .....                                                           | 102       |
| 7.6      | Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                                        | 104       |
|          | References .....                                                                                                              | 104       |

|                                                                                                             |            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 8 Nitric Oxide Involvementin Incompatible Plant–Pathogen Interactions                           | 111 |
| Matteo De Stefano, Alberto Ferrarini, Massimo Delledonne                                             |            |
| 8.1 Introduction .....                                                                                      | 111        |
| 8.2 Activation of the Defense Response .....                                                                | 112        |
| 8.3 NO Production During the Hypersensitive DiseaseResistance Response.....                             | 113        |
| 8.4 Experimental Approaches for Manipulationof Endogenous NO Levels.....                                | 114        |
| 8.5 NO and Cell Death .....                                                                                 | 115        |
| 8.6 NO Signaling in the Plant Defense Response .....                                                        | 116        |
| 8.7 Systemic Acquired Resistance and NO .....                                                               | 117        |
| 8.8 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                  | 118        |
| References .....                                                                                            | 119        |
| 9 From Cell Division to Organ Shape: Nitric OxideIs Involved in Auxin-Mediated Root Development | 123 |
| María Luciana Lanteri, Magdalena Graziano,Natalia Correa-Aragunde, Lorenzo Lamattina            |            |
| 9.1 Introduction .....                                                                                      | 123        |
| 9.1.1 Auxins Control Root Development .....                                                                 | 124        |
| 9.1.2 Nitric Oxide Is a New Player in Auxin-MediatedRoot Development: Summary of Its Effects .....      | 125        |
| 9.2 Nitric Oxide Mediates Auxin-InducedLateral Root Development.....                                    | 127        |
| 9.3 Nitric Oxide Is Required for Adventitious Root Formation....                                            | 129        |
| 9.3.1 Nitric Oxide Acts Downstream of Auxinsto Induce Adventitious Root Formation .....                 | 130        |
| 9.3.2 Nitric Oxide Activates Cyclic GMP DependentPathways During Adventitious Root Formation.....       | 130        |
| 9.3.3 Nitric Oxide Induces Cyclic GMP IndependentPathways During Adventitious Root Formation.....       | 131        |
| 9.4 Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                               | 133        |
| References .....                                                                                            | 133        |
| 10 Neurotransmitters, Neuroregulators and Neurotoxins in Plants                                      | 137 |
| Susan J. Murch                                                                                       |            |
| 10.1 Neurotransmitters: Signaling Molecule in Plants? .....                                                 | 137        |
| 10.2 Neuroregulators in Plants.....                                                                         | 142        |
| 10.3 Neurotoxins in Plants .....                                                                            | 144        |
| 10.4 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                 | 148        |
| References .....                                                                                            | 148        |

|                                                                                                             |                |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| 11 Amino Acid Transport in Plants and Transport of Neurotransmitters in Animals: a Common Mechanism? | 153     |
| Tobias Müller, Wolfgang Koch, Daniel Wipf                                                            |                |
| 11.1 Introduction .....                                                                                     | 153            |
| 11.2 Amino Acid Transport in Animals.....                                                                   | 154            |
| 11.2.1 Sodium Dicarboxylate Symporter Family (SDS, SLC1) .....                                              | 154            |
| 11.2.2 The Sodium- and Chloride-Dependent Neurotransmitter Transporter Family (NTF, SLC6) .....             | 156            |
| 11.2.3 Cationic Amino Acid Transporters and Heteromeric Amino Acid Transporters (SLC7) .....                | 156            |
| 11.2.4 The Type I Phosphate Transporter Family (SLC17) .....                                                | 157            |
| 11.2.5 The Vesicular Inhibitory Amino Acid Transporter Family (VIAAT, SLC32) .....                          | 157            |
| 11.2.6 The Proton/Amino Acid Transporter Family (PAT, SLC36).....                                           | 157            |
| 11.2.7 The Sodium-Coupled Neutral Amino Acid Transporter Family (SNAT, SLC38) .....                         | 158            |
| 11.3 Amino Acid Transport in Plants .....                                                                   | 159            |
| 11.3.1 Amino Acid–Polyamine–Choline Transporter Family                                                      | 159            |
| 11.3.2 Amino Acid Transporter Family 1 .....                                                                | 160            |
| 11.4 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                 | 165            |
| References .....                                                                                            | 166            |
| 12 GABA and GHB Neurotransmitters in Plants and Animals                                          | 171 |
| Aaron Fait, Ayelet Yellin, Hillel Fromm                                                              |                |
| 12.1 Introduction .....                                                                                     | 171            |
| 12.2 The GABA Shunt and GABA Signaling .....                                                                | 173            |
| 12.2.1 Mammalian GABA Signaling.....                                                                        | 173            |
| 12.2.2 GABA Signaling in Plants.....                                                                        | 173            |
| 12.2.3 GABA Transporters.....                                                                               | 175            |
| 12.3 GHB, a By-Product of the GABA Shunt and a Neurotransmitter .....                                       | 177            |
| 12.3.1 From Elixir of Life to Date-Rape Drug .....                                                          | 177            |
| 12.3.2 SSADH Inborn Deficiency: the Dark Side of GHB.....                                                   | 178            |
| 12.3.3 The GABA Shunt and Redox Imbalance: from Bacteria to Humans.....                                     | 179            |
| 12.3.4 The GABA Shunt, GHB, and the Redox State in Plants.....                                              | 180            |
| 12.4 Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                              | 181            |
| References .....                                                                                            | 181            |

|                                                                                                                        |            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 13 The Arabidopsis thaliana Glutamate-like Receptor Family (AtGLR)                                       | 187 |
| Matthew Gilliam, Malcolm Campbell, Christian Dubos, Dirk Becker, Romola Davenport                               |            |
| 13.1 Introduction .....                                                                                                | 187        |
| 13.2 Roles (and Effects) of Glutamate, Glycine and Interrelated Amino Acids in Plants .....                            | 189        |
| 13.2.1 Effects of Amino Acids on Plant Development .....                                                               | 189        |
| 13.2.2 Glutamate and Glycine as Signalling Molecules .....                                                             | 190        |
| 13.3 Roles of AtGLR .....                                                                                              | 192        |
| 13.3.1 Expression.....                                                                                                 | 192        |
| 13.3.2 Amino Acid Binding and AtGLR Regulation .....                                                                   | 193        |
| 13.3.3 Are AtGLRs Ion Channels? .....                                                                                  | 194        |
| 13.3.4 C:N Signalling.....                                                                                             | 195        |
| 13.3.5 Stress Responses.....                                                                                           | 196        |
| 13.4 Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                                         | 197        |
| 13.4.1 Expression.....                                                                                                 | 197        |
| 13.4.2 Ligand Binding and Regulation.....                                                                              | 198        |
| 13.4.3 Knockout and Overexpression Phenotyping .....                                                                   | 198        |
| 13.4.4 Heterologous Expression .....                                                                                   | 199        |
| 13.4.5 NSCC Characterisation.....                                                                                      | 200        |
| References .....                                                                                                       | 200        |
| 14 Similarities Between Endocannabinoid Signaling in Animal Systems and N-Acylethanolamine Metabolism in Plants | 205 |
| Elison B. Blancaflor, Kent D. Chapman                                                                           |            |
| 14.1 Introduction and Overview of Mammalian Endocannabinoid Signaling .....                                            | 205        |
| 14.2 NAE Structure and Occurrence in Plants .....                                                                      | 207        |
| 14.3 NAE Metabolism in Plants.....                                                                                     | 208        |
| 14.3.1 NAE Formation .....                                                                                             | 208        |
| 14.3.2 NAE Hydrolysis .....                                                                                            | 210        |
| 14.3.3 NAE Oxidation .....                                                                                             | 211        |
| 14.3.4 NAPE Formation .....                                                                                            | 212        |
| 14.4 Prospective Functions of NAE in Plants.....                                                                       | 213        |
| 14.4.1 NAEs in Plant Defense Responses.....                                                                            | 213        |
| 14.4.2 NAE in Seed Germination and Seedling Growth .....                                                               | 215        |
| 14.5 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                            | 216        |
| References .....                                                                                                       | 216        |

|                                                                                                           |            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 15 Regulation of Plant Growth and Developmentby Extracellular Nucleotides                     | 221 |
| Stanley J. Roux, Charlotte Song, Collene Jeter                                                     |            |
| 15.1 Introduction .....                                                                                   | 221        |
| 15.2 Rapid Responses of Plants to Applied Nucleotides .....                                               | 222        |
| 15.2.1 Induced Changes in the Concentrationof Cytoplasmic Calcium Ions .....                          | 222        |
| 15.2.2 Induced Changes in Superoxide Production .....                                                     | 227        |
| 15.3 Slower Growth Response Changes Induced by eATP .....                                                 | 228        |
| 15.4 Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                            | 231        |
| References .....                                                                                          | 232        |
| 16 Physiological Roles of Nonselective Cation Channelsin the Plasma Membrane of Higher Plants | 235 |
| Vadim Demidchik                                                                                    |            |
| 16.1 Introduction .....                                                                                   | 235        |
| 16.2 Physiological Roles of Animal NSCC .....                                                             | 236        |
| 16.3 Functional Classification of Plant NSCC .....                                                        | 236        |
| 16.4 The Role of NSCC in Plant Mineral Nutrition .....                                                    | 237        |
| 16.4.1 Potassium and Ammonium .....                                                                       | 237        |
| 16.4.2 Calcium and Magnesium .....                                                                        | 238        |
| 16.4.3 Microelements and Trace Elements .....                                                             | 239        |
| 16.5 The Role of NSCC in Plant Signalling .....                                                           | 240        |
| 16.6 The Role of NSCC in Plant Growth and Development .....                                               | 244        |
| 16.7 Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                            | 244        |
| References .....                                                                                          | 244        |
| 17 Touch-Responsive Behaviors and Gene Expression in Plants                                        | 249 |
| Elizabeth McCormack, Luis Velasquez, Nikkí A. Delk, Janet Braam                                    |            |
| 17.1 Specialized Plants – Touch Responses That Catch Attention ..                                         | 249        |
| 17.2 Thigmotropism – Vines, Tendrils and Roots .....                                                      | 251        |
| 17.3 Thigmomorphogenesis – Plasticity of Shoot Growth .....                                               | 252        |
| 17.4 Mechanosensitive Gene Expression .....                                                               | 253        |
| 17.5 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                               | 256        |
| References .....                                                                                          | 257        |
| 18 Oscillations in Plants                                                                          | 261 |
| Sergey Shabala                                                                                     |            |
| 18.1 Introduction .....                                                                                   | 261        |
| 18.2 Diversity and Hierarchy of Plant Oscillators .....                                                   | 262        |
| 18.2.1 Spatial and Temporary Hierarchy .....                                                              | 262        |
| 18.2.2 Functional Expression .....                                                                        | 263        |

|           |                                                                                                                                                           |            |
|-----------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 18.3      | Advantages and Principles of Oscillatory Control .....                                                                                                    | 268        |
| 18.3.1    | Feedback Control, Dampingand Self-Sustained Oscillations .....                                                                                        | 268        |
| 18.3.2    | Advantages of Oscillatory Strategy .....                                                                                                                  | 269        |
| 18.3.3    | Deterministic Chaos and “Strange” Behaviour .....                                                                                                         | 270        |
| 18.3.4    | Resonant Regimes .....                                                                                                                                    | 271        |
| 18.4      | Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                                                                                 | 272        |
|           | References .....                                                                                                                                          | 272        |
| 19 | Electrical Signals in Long-Distance Communication in Plants                                                                                        | 277 |
|           | Kazimierz Trebacz, Halina Dziubinska, Elzbieta Krol                                                                                                |            |
| 19.1      | Action Potentials .....                                                                                                                                   | 277        |
| 19.1.1    | General Characteristics .....                                                                                                                             | 277        |
| 19.1.2    | Ion Mechanism of Action Potentials .....                                                                                                                  | 278        |
| 19.1.3    | Ways of Action Potential Transmission .....                                                                                                               | 283        |
| 19.1.4    | Physiological Implication of Plant Excitation .....                                                                                                       | 284        |
| 19.2      | Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                                                                                 | 287        |
|           | References .....                                                                                                                                          | 287        |
| 20 | Slow Wave Potentials – a Propagating Electrical SignalUnique to Higher Plants                                                                 | 291 |
|           | Rainer Stahlberg, Robert E. Cleland, Elizabeth Van Volkenburgh                                                                                     |            |
| 20.1      | A New Effort to Decipher the Impactof Electrical Long-Distance Signals in Plants .....                                                                | 292        |
| 20.2      | Propagating Depolarization Signals in Plants .....                                                                                                        | 292        |
| 20.3      | SWPs are Hydraulically-Induced Depolarizations .....                                                                                                      | 295        |
| 20.4      | The Propagation of SWPs .....                                                                                                                             | 301        |
| 20.5      | The Ionic Mechanism of SWPs .....                                                                                                                         | 302        |
| 20.6      | The Effects of SWPs: Targeted Organs .....                                                                                                                | 303        |
| 20.7      | WPs and SWPs .....                                                                                                                                        | 304        |
|           | References .....                                                                                                                                          | 305        |
| 21 | Electrical Signals, the Cytoskeleton, and Gene Expression:a Hypothesis on the Coherence of the Cellular Responsesto Environmental Insult | 309 |
|           | Eric Davies, Bratislav Stankovic                                                                                                                   |            |
| 21.1      | Introduction to the Hypothesis .....                                                                                                                      | 309        |
| 21.2      | Evidence for Our Hypothesis .....                                                                                                                         | 312        |
| 21.2.1    | Electrical Signals and Translation .....                                                                                                                  | 312        |
| 21.2.2    | Calcium, the Cytoskeleton, and Translation .....                                                                                                          | 312        |
| 21.2.3    | Calcium Channels, the Cytoskeleton, and Transcription                                                                                                     | 315        |

|           |                                                                                                    |            |
|-----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 21.3      | Conclusions and Perspectives:The “Help! It’s a Virus” Hypothesis.....                          | 318        |
|           | References .....                                                                                   | 318        |
| 22 | Characteristics and Functions of Phloem-TransmittedElectrical Signals in Higher Plants | 321 |
|           | Jörg Fromm, Silke Lautner                                                                   |            |
| 22.1      | Introduction .....                                                                                 | 321        |
| 22.2      | Signal Perception and Short-Distance Electrical Signalling ...                                     | 322        |
| 22.3      | Long-Distance Signalling via the Phloem .....                                                      | 323        |
| 22.4      | Characteristics of Phloem-Transmitted Action Potentials ....                                       | 325        |
| 22.5      | Ion Channels of the Phloem .....                                                                   | 326        |
| 22.6      | Functions of Electrical Signals in Higher Plants.....                                              | 326        |
| 22.7      | Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                          | 329        |
|           | References .....                                                                                   | 329        |
| 23 | Long-Distance Signal Transmission in Trees                                                  | 333 |
|           | Stefano Mancuso, Sergio Mugnai                                                              |            |
| 23.1      | Introduction .....                                                                                 | 333        |
| 23.2      | Transmission of Chemicals.....                                                                     | 334        |
| 23.2.1    | From Where Does ABA Come? .....                                                                    | 335        |
| 23.2.2    | How Much ABA Is Involved in the Responseof Trees to Drought? .....                             | 335        |
| 23.2.3    | ABA and Xylem Sap pH .....                                                                         | 336        |
| 23.3      | Hydraulic Signals.....                                                                             | 336        |
| 23.4      | Integration of Chemical and Hydraulic Signals.....                                                 | 338        |
| 23.5      | Electrical Signals .....                                                                           | 339        |
| 23.6      | Airborne Flow of Volatile Messengers .....                                                         | 342        |
| 23.7      | Colour Signals.....                                                                                | 343        |
| 23.8      | Conclusions and Future Prospects.....                                                              | 344        |
|           | References .....                                                                                   | 345        |
| 24 | Electrophysiology and Phototropism                                                          | 351 |
|           | Alexander G. Volkov                                                                         |            |
| 24.1      | Introduction .....                                                                                 | 351        |
| 24.2      | Phototropism and Photosensors .....                                                                | 353        |
| 24.3      | Electrochemical Circuits .....                                                                     | 355        |
| 24.4      | Measuring of Action, Graded,and Variation Potentials in Plants.....                            | 356        |
| 24.5      | Light-Induced Electrophysiological Signaling in Plants .....                                       | 358        |
|           | References .....                                                                                   | 365        |

|                                                                                                                                                         |            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 25 Hydro-Electrochemical Integration of the Higher Plant –Basis for Electrogenic Flower Induction                                           | 369 |
| Edgar Wagner, Lars Lehner, Johannes Normann,Justyna Veit, Jolana Albrechtová                                                                |            |
| 25.1 State of the Art in Photoperiodic Controlof Flowering in Short- and Long-Day Plants.....                                                       | 369        |
| 25.2 Rhythms in SER as Markers of Photoperiodic Controland Interorgan Communication in a Long-and a Short-Day Plant .....                       | 373        |
| 25.3 Early Changes at the Shoot Apical MeristemDuring Flower Induction .....                                                                        | 373        |
| 25.4 Evolution of Circadian Frequencies –Timing of Metabolic Controls .....                                                                         | 375        |
| 25.5 Circadian Rhythmic Organisation of Energy Metabolismin C. rubrum and the Gating of Photoreceptor(Phytochrome) Action .....          | 376        |
| 25.6 Hydraulic–Electrochemical Integration of the Whole Plant ...                                                                                       | 378        |
| 25.7 Electrophysiological Integration of Activityof the Whole Plant – Monitoring of Surface Sum Potentials ...                                      | 380        |
| 25.8 Substitution of Photoperiodic Flower Inductionby Electrogenic Flower Induction.....                                                            | 385        |
| 25.9 Conclusions and Future Perspectives .....                                                                                                          | 386        |
| References .....                                                                                                                                        | 387        |
| 26 Signals and Signalling Pathways in Plant Wound Responses                                                                                      | 391 |
| Jeremy D. Rhodes, John F. Thain, David C. Wildon                                                                                                 |            |
| 26.1 Introduction .....                                                                                                                                 | 391        |
| 26.2 Patterns of Proteinase Inhibitor Activityand Electrical Activity Following a Varietyof Wounding Protocols Applied to Tomato Seedlings..... | 394        |
| 26.3 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                                                                             | 400        |
| References .....                                                                                                                                        | 401        |
| 27 Root Exudation and Rhizosphere Biology:Multiple Functions of a Plant Secondary Metabolite                                                | 403 |
| Laura G. Perry, Tiffany L. Weir, Balakrishnan Prithiviraj,Mark W. Paschke, Jorge M. Vivanco                                                 |            |
| 27.1 Introduction .....                                                                                                                                 | 403        |
| 27.2 C. maculosa Invasion Ecology .....                                                                                                          | 405        |
| 27.3 (±)-Catechin, Allelopathy, and Cell Death.....                                                                                                     | 407        |
| 27.3.1 Identification of the Allelochemical .....                                                                                                       | 408        |

|                                                                                                        |            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 27.3.2 Catechin Induces Reactive Oxygen Speciesand $\text{Ca}^{2+}$ -Mediated Cell Death .....     | 408        |
| 27.3.3 Catechin Exposure Leads to Genome-Wide Changesin Arabidopsis .....                   | 409        |
| 27.3.4 ( $\pm$ )-Catechin Is Present at Phytotoxic Concentrationsin C. maculosa Soils ..... | 410        |
| 27.3.5 The Role of ( $\pm$ )-Catechin in C. maculosa Invasion .....                             | 411        |
| 27.4 ( $\pm$ )-Catechin and C. maculosa Autoinhibition .....                                    | 412        |
| 27.5 ( $\pm$ )-Catechin Effects on Soil Communities .....                                              | 413        |
| 27.6 ( $\pm$ )-Catechin, Soil Processes, and Nutrient Availability .....                               | 415        |
| 27.7 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                            | 416        |
| References .....                                                                                       | 417        |
| 28 Communication Between Undamaged Plants by Volatiles:the Role of Allelobiosis .....      | 421 |
| Velemir Ninkovic, Robert Glinwood, Jan Pettersson                                               |            |
| 28.1 Introduction .....                                                                                | 421        |
| 28.1.1 Plant–Plant Communication via Volatiles –a Complex Language .....                           | 423        |
| 28.1.2 Experimental Considerationsin Plant–Plant Communication .....                               | 423        |
| 28.2 Allelobiosis in Barley .....                                                                      | 424        |
| 28.2.1 Barley Plant Responses to Plant Volatiles .....                                                 | 424        |
| 28.2.2 Allelobiosis and Plant Responses .....                                                          | 425        |
| 28.3 Allelobiosis and Insect Responses .....                                                           | 427        |
| 28.3.1 Allelobiosis and Aphid Response .....                                                           | 428        |
| 28.3.2 Allelobiosis and Ladybird Searching Behaviour .....                                             | 430        |
| 28.4 Conclusions and Future Prospects .....                                                            | 431        |
| References .....                                                                                       | 432        |
| Subject Index .....                                                                             | 435 |