

DOES
YOUR VOTE
COUNT?

Critical Pedagogy and Democracy

PAUL R. CARR

Foreword by DANIEL SCHUGURENSKY

Afterword by JOEL WESTHEIMER

Table of Contents

List of Figures	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
Foreword by Daniel Schugurensky	xv

Section 1 Setting the Framework

Chapter 1. Introduction: Seeking Democracy through Critical Pedagogy	3
Chapter 2. Democratic Stripes and Divergent Views of Democracy	27
Chapter 3. Discursive Thoughts on the Irreproachability of Democracy	43
Chapter 4. Framing Democracy in Education (with Darren E. Lund)	69

Section 2 Democratic Education: Can It Happen through Osmosis?

Chapter 5. Standards, Accountability and Democracy in Education	91
Chapter 6. Neo-liberalism, Political (Il)lteracy and the Quest for Democracy (with Gina Thésée)	105
Chapter 7. Democracy, Critical Pedagogy and the Education of Educators	123
Chapter 8. Can There Be Racism (and Democracy) in a “Color-blind” Society?	153
Chapter 9. Whiteness and Race Challenging Democracy (with Darren E. Lund)	171

Section 3 Democracy and Power: Can We Be Critical and Also Democratic?

Chapter 10. The Election of an African-American President: Does This Mean Democracy Is Working? (with Brad J. Porfilio)	187
Chapter 11. The Media, Media Literacy and Democratic Education	209
Chapter 12. “Shocked and Awed” Into and Out of Democracy: Can There Be War and Democracy Simultaneously?	231

Section 4 “The End Is the Beginning”

Chapter 13. “But What Can I Do?”	241
Chapter 14. Conclusion: Some Thoughts on, and Options for, a Critical Pedagogy of Democracy	261
Chapter 15. Postscript: Quoting Democracy and Other Subversive Acts	279
Afterword by Joel Westheimer	289
Notes	297
References	307
Index	329