

Constructing identities in online communities of practice

A case study of online learning

Leila Kajee

Peter Lang

Contents

Preface	9
Acknowledgements	11
List of figures	13
Introduction: A context for online communities of practice	15
Part I: Beyond the digital divide: Context, theory, access
1 The terrain of online learning: A local and global perspective	45
2 Theorising learning, communities of practice, literacies, and identity	87
Part II: Design, methodology and implications
3 Designing the project	119
Part III: Electronic literacy and identity
4 Electronic (ICT) literacy as a social practice: Issues of ICT access, proficiency and practice	139
5 Making meaning: Negotiation, participation and constructing identities in online communities of practice	177
Part IV: Implications for teaching and learning: Towards a model of online learning
6 Online communities of practice: From disadvantage to empowerment	227
Appendix	243
Bibliography	247
Index	265