

John Strachan and Alison O'Malley-Younger (eds)

IRELAND

REVOLUTION AND EVOLUTION

Contents

Foreword	ix
MICHAEL O'NEILL
Introduction	I
ALISON O'MALLEY-YOUNGER AND JOHN STRACHAN
PART ONE – CHANGE
Pierce Egan, West Briton	15
JOHN STRACHAN
'Oh Horrible! An Irish Man': Macklin, Friel and the Politics of Mimicry	37
ALISON O'MALLEY-YOUNGER
Bryneich – Rìoghachd Ghàidhealach: The Gaelic Foundations of the Golden Age of Northumbria	61
PAUL L. YOUNGER
'Plentiful Libations of Whisky, Perfervid Irish Oratory and Some Religious Sentiment': Celebrating St Patrick's Day in Manchester, 1825–1922	81
MERVYN BUSTEED
Whitley Stokes's Immram : Evolution, Ireland and Empire	101
ELIZABETH BOYLE

PART TWO – REVOLUTION

- ‘Their Song Is Over’ (and Other Familiar Refrains):
 Irish Revolutions, Gyration and Ululations from
 Lenin to Lennon 119
 WILLY MALEY

- Respectability against Ascendancy:
 The Banim Brothers and the Invention of the Irish Catholic Middle-Class Novel in the Age of O’Connell 145
 PATRICK MAUME

- Theatrical Representations of Easter 1916 and Sir Roger Casement:
 Flags, Walls and Cats 167
 CATHERINE REES

- Reimagining the Irish Historical Novel in Roddy Doyle’s
A Star Called Henry and Joseph O’Connor’s Star of the Sea 183
 SYLVIE MIKOWSKI

PART THREE – EVOLUTION

- Clearing the Air: Irish Women Poets and Environmental Change 195
 LUCY COLLINS

- Contemporary Irish Catholicism: Revolution or Evolution? 211
 EAMON MAHER

- Notes on Contributors 229

- Index 233